

ARCHBOLD ABBERIES IN SCORES OF GOLD MINING SECURITIES

Reading Railroad Officials on Stand in Impeachment Proceedings.

Speculation in a Honduras gold mine with a client before the court and a visit to "Reading" railroad officials to negotiate a coal deal were activities of Judge Robert W. Archbold, of the Commerce Court, revealed today in the impeachment investigation of the House Judiciary Committee.

Five days after he tried a case before Judge Archbold in the Federal court in 1910, and subsequently settled it out of court, W. W. Rissinger, of Scranton, testified that Archbold "went in" with him on the placer gold deal in Honduras, and indorsed a $2,500 note for the deal.

Rissinger denied that the note had been offered for discount to a lawyer in the case before Archbold. President George F. Baer, and Vice President W. J. Richards, disclosed Archbold's interest in negotiating for a coal pile. Baer had no personal knowledge, but Richards said that Archbold went to his office last November, and sought to induce the railroad to lease a culm bank to Fred Warnke, of Scranton. The lease was refused.

Miss Boland on Stand.
Cross examination of Miss Mary Boland, niece and stenographer of William P. Boland, the "prosecuting witness" against Judge Robert W. Archbold, of the Commerce Court, was resumed today in the Judiciary Committee's impeachment probe.

Miss Boland was quizzed regarding her memoranda, and her testimony was given in the coal pile deals, in which Williams was quoted as describing the Commerce Court judge as "no good and a grafter."

Miss Boland's original notes in longhand and shorthand on a desk calendar pad were rigidly inspected. She admitted she had amplified the notes in giving her testimony, when inaccuracies were shown by Archbold's lawyers on cross-examination, she could not remember if Boland aided Williams in lecturing him on "silent party" option agreement, in which Archbold was anonymously referred to.

From railroad officials, headed by George F. Baer, president of the Philadelphia and Reading company, were interviewed today, awaiting their turn on the witness stand. W. J. Richards, president of the Reading's coal company, and C. M. Warriner, manager of the Lehigh Valley railroad's coal properties, were also present.

The railroad officials will testify regarding Archbold's alleged negotiations with them in coal deals.

Another Note Transaction.
Another note transaction of Archbold's was divulged by H. C. Reynolds, Boland's lawyer, upon being recalled. Reynolds said former Representative John T. Lenahan, a Scranton lawyer, told him in gossiping about the Archbold case, that a $2,500 note was presented to him "about the time" Lenahan had a coal case on trial before Archbold in 1910. Reynolds said Lenahan told him that he refused to discount the note.

W. W. Rissinger, of Scranton, substantiated Reynolds' testimony. He said the note was given for a placer gold mine speculation in Honduras, and that Archbold received his share of the stock in February, 1909, for one-third interest in Archbold's Honduras mine, and himself signed the note. Rissinger declared. The witness was then a litigant in Archbold's court. Nothing has ever been paid on the note, which has been renewed every three months. The mine has never been operated or paid any profits. Rissinger also said that Boland recently asked him how he (Boland) could win a suit in the United States Federal court. Rissinger told him to "have a good case and a good lawyer."

Court Record Submitted.

Rissinger denied presenting the $2,500 note to Attorney Lenahan, refuting that part of Reynolds' testimony, but said he may have talked with Lenahan about the note. The witness said his litigation was settled out of Archbold's court weeks before the note was introduced by the judge. The court record, submitted to the committee, also shows that fact.

Wallace M. Ruth, a Scranton banker, succeeded Rissinger on the witness stand. He discounted the note. That Archbold owes his bank $1,700 in addition to the Rissinger note was declared by Ruth. Archbold's lawyers declined to cross-examine the banker.

George F. Baer, president of the Reading railroad, followed Ruth. He told how Fred Warnke, of Scranton, tried to lease a coal culm pile of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company.

"We refused to lease to him," said Baer, "and several persons, including some lawyers, tried to persuade us to lease it."

"Did you ever have any correspondence or conversation with Judge Archbold regarding any coal banks?" asked Chairman Clayton.

"Never," said Baer. "Did he ever write to you?"

"No, I know nothing personal," said Baer. "but, my friend, W. J. Richards, who is here, will tell you about it."

OHIO FLOODED WITH DECEPTIVE SAMPLE BALLOTS

Fine Weather in Ohio and Heavy Vote Is Being Polled

COLUMBUS, May 21.—Fine weather prevailed from Lake Erie to the Ohio and from the eastern boundary of the State to the western. The primaries opened at 5:30 o'clock this morning, and there was a heavy early vote and election officials declared the prospect of breaking all records for a primary vote was good. The polls close at 5:30.

The Roosevelt partisans asserted that Taft would lose, and that the colonel would make a clean sweep of the State. The Taft men ridiculed this claim, declaring that there had been a great gain in Taft sentiment as a result of the President's tour of the State.

The opinion was general that Senator La Follette would poll only a scattering vote that would not affect materially the verdict of the people on the Taft-Roosevelt fight.

Unprejudiced observers declared their belief that the result of the twelve hours battle of ballots would result in a pretty evenly split delegation between Roosevelt and Taft.

As regards the Democrats, it looked as if Governor Harmon would carry his own State despite the well organized efforts of the Woodrow Wilson followers. Wilson has been aided by National Committeeman Harvey C. Garber and the latter today reiterated his belief that the New Jersey governor would sweep the State, even against an Ohioan.

The Republican voters were confronted with a complicated ballot, but that of the Democrats was simple, being a straight preferential ballot carrying the names of Harmon and Wilson in addition to the primary ballot.

Election officials predicted that there would be a large number of Republican ballots thrown out as defective. The Republican primary ballot is very complicated. The names of the candidates for the Presidential nomination did not appear on the Republican ballot, nor was there anything on it to indicate which delegates to the national convention are pledged to this or that candidate. The managers for all the candidates sought to overcome this by circulating every registered voter card, which could reach through the mails by the distribution of cards containing information on the subject and by advertising most lavishly in the newspapers throughout the State. But even at that a great deal of guess work was assured everywhere, and it was calculated that this would hurt the colonel more than it would affect President Taft.

The attorney general sent out word to all election officials throughout the State as well as to county prosecutors and sheriffs, calling attention to the publications of the corrupt practices act and admonishing the proper officials to see that the law was rigidly enforced.

W. W. Rissinger, of Scranton, substantiated Reynolds' testimony. He said the note was given for a placer gold mine speculation in Honduras, and that Archbold received his share of the stock in February, 1909, for one-third interest in Archbold's Honduras mine, and himself signed the note. DELEGATES LIKELY WILL FAVOR CLARK FOR NOMINATION

Alexandrians to Leave for State Democratic Convention at Norfolk.

WASHINGTON TIMES BUREAU,
ALEXANDRIA, VA., MAY 21.
The delegation which will represent Alexandria at the State Democratic convention at Norfolk will tomorrow evening leave for that place. Alexandria is allotted twelve votes in the convention, the first session of which will be held Thursday, and these votes will be apportioned among the twenty-two delegates who were named at the recent meeting of the committee. There is a possibility that several of those appointed will be unable to attend.

While the delegates leave without instruction, there is but little doubt that they favor the candidacy of Champ Clark.

In the event a majority of the delegation from this district favor one man, the unit rule will be adopted, and all twelve votes be cast for that candidate.

There is a strong probability that James R. Catton, a well-known member of the local bar, will be chosen as temporary chairman of the convention.

Alexandria county is allotted four votes, and like the city these are divided. This delegation will leave for Norfolk at 7 o'clock tonight.

Among those from this, the Eighth Congressional district, who are mentioned as candidates for delegate to the Baltimore convention, are George H. Rucker, of Alexandria county, and Robert S. Cochran, of the Plains.

At the meeting, held in the town of Potomac, Alexandria county, last night, which had for its purpose the making of arrangements for fire protection for that place, action was deferred until Friday night, when another meeting will be held.

Among the matters discussed was the installation of a high pressure service, which, it was explained, would do away with the necessity of the purchase of an expensive engine.

The new health laws of the city will come up for discussion at the special meeting of city council, which has been called for 7 o'clock tonight. It bids fair to be a long and drawn-out session, as it is understood that some of the members will stoutly oppose some of the provisions of the bill. The draft of the ordinance consists of thirty-five typewritten pages, each one of which will be carefully gone over and discussed.

A public meeting of the Alexandria Free Kindergarten will be held in Young People's building tonight. Addresses will be made by Dr. Claxton, superintendent of that branch of educational work in Washington, and several others prominently identified with it.

A flower festival will be held at the synagogue by the children of the Hebrew Sunday School, at 7:30 o'clock this evening. This is an annual custom, in connection with the festival of Shabbath, or Feast of the seven Weeks.

The following civil service examinations will be held in Alexandria in the near future: Organic chemist, male, salary from $2,520 to $3,600, on June 10; deputy shipping commissioner, male, salary $900, on June 12; assistant pharmacist, male, salary $1,800 to $2,000, June 15.
